

Spotted Sea Hare

Photo Credit: Martin Shields

Can be found in seagrass beds and shallow hard bottom habitats.

Named after its ear-like projections called rhinophores which aid in sense of smell.

Closely related to snails, slugs and nudibranchs.

Expels ink as a form of defense. Ink color varies and is based upon the types of algae they consume.

